Munich: The 2018 ADAC GT Masters was one of the most exciting in the history of the race series, and now, fans can experience the thrills of that season digitally. The 2018 ADAC GT Masters pack featuring last year's cars and tracks is now on the ever popular RaceRoom Racing Experience which has already attracted more than three million downloads.

Whether it's the Audi R8 LMS, the BMW M6 GT3, the Callaway Corvette C7 GT3-R, the Mercedes-AMG GT3 or the Porsche 911 GT3 R that takes your fancy, the new ADAC GT Masters 2018 pack on RaceRoom Racing Experience gives you the choice of five different GT3 sports cars which are all available in the original liveries from last season. The five GT3 vehicles come as a pack but are also available individually.

The 2018 ADAC GT Masters is integrated into the RaceRoom Racing Experience as a single class, and gamers can compete with their favourite vehicle(s) at all seven race tracks used by the ADAC GT Masters, including Most which debuted in 2018. You can post hot laps on your own, compete in races against other opponents or even contest the entire season. It's also possible to go up against other players in qualifying and in multi-player races. ADAC GT Masters race winner Philip Ellis (26, GB) is on RaceRoom and as a test driver, actually helped out with vehicle physics, realistically translating digitally how the cars handle.
