DEKRA Lausitzring next stop in the ADAC GT Masters

- ADAC GT Masters changes venue for the sixth race weekend

Munich: The sixth race weekend of the ADAC GT Masters will be held from October 30th to November 1st at the DEKRA Lausitzring. The second race of the ADAC GT Master on the Brandenburg track after the start of the season at the end of July replaces the races originally scheduled at Circuit Zandvoort in the Netherlands on the same date. The ADAC GT Masters and Circuit Zandvoort have been working intensively on a concept over the past few weeks to run the race weekend. Due to the high number of infections in the Netherlands and the classification as a risk area by the German government, the ADAC GT Masters has now decided to change the venue at short notice. Together with the ADAC GT Masters, the ADAC GT4 Germany, ADAC TCR Germany, ADAC Formula 4 and the Porsche Carrera Cup Germany race at DEKRA Lausitzring.

“We have worked very well and constructively with the Circuit Zandvoort over the past few weeks and have checked all possibilities. Our big thanks go to the Zandvoort team there for the good support, we are looking forward to a comeback in Zandvoort in August 2021. Due to the current pandemic situation, we are switching to an alternative racetrack, because the health of everyone involved comes first. We would like to thank our long-term partner DEKRA, who made it possible at short notice that we can drive at the Lausitzring,” said ADAC Motorsport Director Thomas Voss.

Fans who have already purchased tickets for the ADAC GT Masters race weekend in Zandvoort will be informed by email and the full ticket price will be automatically refunded.
