Munich: Making the perfect Christmas present for motor racing fans – tickets for 2021 ADAC GT Masters season now available online at adac.de/motorsport. Buying now, before New Year, could save you a lot of money – in the case of ADAC members, practically double. Day tickets are available online now until 31st December with prices starting at just 22.50 euros for ADAC members, and, thanks to the 'print@home' facility, you can print out tickets at any time of your choosing without incurring postage. Prices remain unchanged compared to 2020. The ADAC GT Masters will have the status of 'International German GT Championship' for the first time in 2021 and start its 15th season on the weekend of 15th/16th May 2021 in the Motorsport Arena Oschersleben.

Fans ordering tickets before 31st December 2020 will enjoy big savings. ADAC members can buy weekend tickets for just 31.99 euros (non-members, 34.99) while day tickets (Saturday or Sunday) will cost ADAC members just 22.50 when bought before the end of the year (non-members 25 euros). Tickets purchased from the box office at the racetrack will cost 35 euros for the day and 50 for the weekend. Admission is free for children up to and including twelve years of age when accompanied by a paying adult (up to age 14 at Red Bull Ring). These tickets are a risk-free purchase, as they can be returned for a refund or exchanged for tickets for another event should official guidelines in force because of the pandemic affect spectators attending races in any way.

Once again, fans can look forward to seeing plenty of motor racing action over the seven race weekends. Apart from the Super Sports Car League, the ADAC Formula 4 will also hold its races at all seven venues while the ADAC GT4 Germany, ADAC TCR Germany and the Porsche Carrera Cup Deutschland will do battle at six events to add to your enjoyment. As before, access to all grandstands open for the event in 2021 is included in the price. Tickets for six of the seven race weekends can now be purchased online at adac.de/motorsport. Advance ticket sales for the DEKRA Lausitzring will commence at a later date.
