Sky Sport joins the extensive TV and streaming portfolio of the ADAC GT Masters

- Pay TV provider Sky Deutschland to broadcast ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany races in 2025
- Comprehensive coverage through Sky Sport, SPORT1, Joyn, ServusTV On and YouTube

Munich. The TV presence of the ADAC GT Masters has grown once again: Pay TV provider Sky Deutschland will show all ADAC GT Masters races in the 2025 season either live or replayed in full. Fans can look forward to coverage on Sky Sport from round two of the season, which forms part of the DTM programme at Circuit Zandvoort from 6th to 8th June. On Saturday and Sunday, Sky Sport will show the day's race in a later programme at 22:00 on Sky Sport Mix.

The extensive rights package not only includes all ADAC GT Masters races, but also every race in the ADAC GT4 Germany series – also live or for later viewing. Viewers can also look forward to highlights of the DTM races as part of Sky Sport's Formula 1 coverage. The Sky Sport programmes can be received by booking the Sky Sport package on the Sky Stream TV platform, or flexibly with monthly streaming service WOW.

"This presence of the ADAC GT Masters on TV and streaming services is greater this year than ever before. We are pleased to be able to add Sky Sport to the extensive portfolio," says ADAC Motorsport Director Thomas Voss. "As a rights holder for Formula 1 and MotoGP in Germany, Sky Sport can call on a wealth of motorsport expertise. It is great to round off the offering with the ADAC GT Masters, ADAC GT4 Germany and selected scenes from the DTM, with McLaren driver and Sky expert Timo Glock, as part of the Formula 1 coverage."

Sky Sport joins the existing comprehensive TV and streaming portfolio, which includes SPORT1 on free-to-air TV and streaming, free ProSiebenSat.1 superstreamer Joyn, the free portal ServusTV On, and livestreams on the ADAC Motorsport YouTube channel. The ADAC GT Masters also enjoys extensive coverage internationally, with the race shown live or replayed in full in 120 territories.
