SPORT1 shows the ADAC GT Masters on free-to-air TV again in 2026

- SPORT1 is Free TV Partner of the ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany
- Free livestreams accompany all races on Sport1.de, Joyn, ServusTV On and YouTube
- Further growth in coverage: ADAC GT Masters live or replayed in full in over 150 territories

Munich. The ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany enter the 2026 season with an extensive TV and streaming portfolio, with coverage once again growing internationally. SPORT1 is broadcasting the ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany live on free-to-air TV, and in a livestream on SPORT1.de. Joyn, the streaming platform of ProSiebenSat.1, will show all the races in both series free of charge. The races will also be available free of charge on ServusTV On and the ADAC Motorsports YouTube channel. International coverage also grows again in 2026. The races in the ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany can be followed live or replayed in full in more than 150 territories around the world.

Coverage of the ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany on SPORT1 will be even more extensive than last year. As a rule, the Sunday races in both series will be broadcast live. A compact highlights package of the Saturday races will be shown before the Sunday races. In addition, livestreams of all races can be found at SPORT1.de.

ProSiebenSat.1's super streamer Joyn is showing all the races in both series live and free of charge. Joyn users can also look forward to the free Fan-TV livestream, direct from the circuit, which will run all day on the Saturday and Sunday as part of the DTM package.

ServusTV viewers will also enjoy comprehensive reporting. All the races in the 2026 season will be shown in full on the streaming platform ServusTV On. The same goes for the ADAC's YouTube channel: all races and qualifying sessions will be broadcast in German and English at youtube.com/adacmotorsports.

The opening weekend of this season's ADAC GT Masters and ADAC GT4 Germany takes place from 24th to 26th April at the Red Bull Ring. Tickets for the action in Austria, which forms part of the DTM programme, start at € 49 and are available at dtm.com.
