Munich. The ADAC GT Masters will report for a ‘dress rehearsal’ in the run-up to the 2015 season, as official pre-season tests get under way in the etropolis Motorsport Arena Oschersleben, April 8th-9th. Teams and drivers will ‘warm up’ at official pre-season testing around two weeks before the eighth Super Sports Car League season opens at the track in Eastern Germany on the weekend of April 24th-26th. A media day will be held on April 8th during which members of the press will have an opportunity to find out all there is to know about the 2015 ADAC GT Masters season. The ADAC GT Masters pre-season tests also mark the start of the season for the etropolis Motorsport Arena Oschersleben itself. At the annual press conference on April 8th, racetrack officials will join ADAC GT Masters representatives to disseminate information concerning the season and other events/activities to be staged at Germany’s northernmost track during 2015.

The ADAC GT Masters pre-season tests will offer an exclusive glimpse of the exciting 2015 season ahead which is to be featured this year by new television partner SPORT1. The tests mark the premiere too for new exclusive tyre partner Pirelli in the ADAC GT Masters. On both days at Oschersleben, the entire Super Sports Cars League field will be utilising new Pirelli tyres for the first time. Also for the first time in Oschersleben, the new Bentley Continental and the updated Nissan GT-R will go up against the more established competition of the Audi R8, Corvette Z06, Mercedes-Benz SLS AMG, Porsche 911 & Co.

The newly inaugurated ADAC Formula 4 with Abarth as engine partner and tyre supplier Pirelli will be something else to look forward to at testing. The ADAC’s new single-seater series will debut in the etropolis Motorsport Arena Oschersleben, and the first ADAC Formula 4 laps will be posted there during ADAC GT Masters pre-season testing.

The etropolis Motorsport Arena Oschersleben is open to fans on both days of testing. Admission for the day costs 5 euros. Tickets are only available at the box office.

Note to media representatives: You will receive information about the precise schedule of the media day/press conference and accreditation procedure at a later date in a separate invitation.
